

Does Homework Improve Academic Success? Research says YES!

How Much Homework Should I be doing? Let's see.....

The National Education Association (NEA) suggest that homework can:

- improve students' scores on the class tests that come at the end of a topic.
- help students develop good study habits so they are ready to grow as their cognitive capacities mature.
- help students recognize that learning can occur at home as well as at school.
- foster independent learning and responsible character traits.
- give parents an opportunity to see what's going on at school and let them express positive attitudes toward achievement.
